Norman Mathews

Norman Mathews' art songs were performed at The Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC, in 2003. His song cycle Songs of the Poet set to Walt Whitman poems, has been recorded by Munich Opera tenor Gregory Wiest on Capstone Records (CPS 8646) and has been performed around the world. The cycle was also featured in a program entitled Whitman and Music presented by The American Composers Orchestra. His song The Last Invocation received the Recognition of Excellence Award at the 2003 Diana Barnhart American Art Song Competition.

You Might As Well Live, Mathews's one-person musical play starring Karen Mason and based on the writings of Dorothy Parker, has been performed at the Harris Theatre of Music and Dance as part of the Chicago Humanities Festival and was seen at The New York Musical Theatre Festival. The play was awarded a grant from the Ludwig Vogelstein Foundation. Somebody Write Me a Song, his cabaret review written with lyricist Patty Seyburn was performed by Debbie Gravitte, Liz Callaway, and Peter Samuel. Lost Empires, a new musical based on the J. B. Priestley novel, written with co-book writer Todd Lehman and lyricist Patty Seyburn, is slated for a reading at The York Theatre in New York City in 2006.

Mathews holds a BA in music from Hunter College and an MA in music from New York University. His composition teachers have included Richard Hundley, Richard Danielpour, and Charles Turner. He has won several ASCAP awards.
