Text:

Under the wide and starry sky,
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me:
Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

- Robert Louis Stevenson (1850-1894)

From the Composer

After my father's death in a paragliding accident in 2023, I began to relate to Robert Louis Stevenson's Requiem on a more personal level. Not only is this piece a requiem, but it's also a sendoff. Inspired by Irish folk music, it captures the nostalgia of remembering someone who's passed on. The sailor. The hunter. The adventurer. These words more or less capture who my father was. He was also a musician, and without him or my mother I would not be able to study music — which is a great privilege. So this is, in a way, a song of gratitude. Writing it helped me process my emotions during a season of grief. I hope it can serve a similar purpose for others.

Dear conductor,

You can support these composers, diversify your concerts, and push towards equality by programming music from the #ComposeLikeAGirl series. Inviting the composer into the rehearsal process through a zoom or in-person workshop or Q & A session is an incredible experience for all involved. Be sure to notify and invite the composer to any performances of the work, and submit a PDF of the concert program to JH Music to ensure the composer receives performances royalties from ASCAP. Thank you!
