Just Once I Want to Write a Gentle Thing

I'll tell you a story, then, of how as I was walking, I smelled something sugary, elusive, spicy, you could call it, and smoky in a sad sort of way. Also like blossom barely born, pale and half-undone to the wind that still might even be carrying snow. this scent I decided to follow.
Sometimes I stumbled on the path, silver with stones worn smooth as kindness, or had to stop and rest among pines where the smell settled a little, at home with their religious and sensuous twang. Other times, I moved fast, snatching at its mulchy sweet threads through the air, the leaf and rotten-meat ribbons of scent, rough tongues of tigers who have recently feasted, the living decay of happiness, and saddle soap, the lemon urgency of sex, honey of the air — where did it come from?
I rose panting up the slope, muscles strung on the searching bow of my body, raised the back of my hand to wipe away the sweat salting my lips and realized the smell — the smell is me.

Composer Note: Nancy White’s warm and earthy poem “Just Once I Want to Write a Gentle Thing” invites the reader to embrace every aspect of one’s being. Following the poet’s lead, I asked myself what each successive smell might sound like. This sensory exploration was what helped me find the visceral tenderness in Nancy’s dark, sweet, vulnerable, completely human poem.

I'll Tell You a Story, then... was written and developed for vocalist Ruth MacKenzie. Traces of her passionate, fully embodied style made their way into the song, giving it more sensuality and freedom. I eventually expanded this song into Nature Creature, an extended vocal work that revels in the beauty and complexity of being alive.
